'Overstepped authority'

Randolph criticized by board

Tommy Shaw, district three member of the Hancock County School Board, expressed displeasure with Superintendent of Education Terrell Randolph Friday, claiming that he "overstepped his authority" by elevating David Ward, an assistant coach, to acting assistant principal at Hancock North Central High School without securing board approval.

Randolph said the action was taken as an emergency measure and admitted "it was a mistake on my part that I didn't make my intentions known to the board."

Shaw refused to let the matter rest and said that Randolph should allow the school principals to assign duties to their personnel. "As long as we work like this, we'll never have a school," he said.

Randolph said he made the decision personally "because we've had three principals at the high school since Jan. 1, and we would have had three changes if the decision had been left up to them."

The exchange between Shaw and Randolph came following the superintendent's recommendation that a teacher at Hancock North Central who has been helping with the athletic program after school receive a partial coach's supplement in the amount of $300 annually.

Board president Monvel Cuevas said he could not vote for the recommendation because the move would be "financially uneconomical." There comes a time when we have to stop spending money on sports and get into education," he said.

After discussion involving comments from all five board members, the vote was 3-2 in favor of the motion for the supplement. Those voting against the motion were Oris Ladner, district one member, and Cuevas.

The board voted 4-1, with Ladner casting the dissenting vote, to rehire Guy Nell Smith as math instructor and girl's basketball coach at Gulfview Elementary School.

Smith's contract renewal came up at an earlier meeting, but was tabled due to allegations made against him by Johnny Banks, district five member, and Ladner. Apparently, Banks had a change of heart, but Ladner, in casting his nay vote said "I wouldn't vote for that man if the president of the United States recommended him."

In other business, the board voted to rehire Brenda Ladner and Garland Cuevas in the bookkeeping department of the central office, and Ebner Ferguson as drug education specialist for the county school district.

The board took under advisement a petition containing 579 names from persons in the Kiln area to rename the gymnasium at Hancock North Central after basketball star Wendell Ladner. The petition was presented by Larry Morrison representing the Kiln Jaycees.

The board will discuss guidelines for substitute teacher qualifications at the next meeting, which is scheduled April 19 at 9 a.m.

During that meeting, a representative from the State School Board Association will address a joint session of the county school board and the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District.

Judge withdraws from Riemann suit

Chancery Judge Frank Alexander excused himself Thursday from hearing further testimony in a suit filed by Riemann Funeral Home against Howard Stiglet and cited his previous association with George Estes, Gulfport attorney representing Riemann's, as his reason for vacating the bench.

Alexander, who made the announcement as the hearing was about enter its second day, said defense attorney Joe Sam Owen asked him to cease hearing the case. Alexander said the hearing would be turned over to Judge John Morris to be heard at the chancellor's convenience.

Testimony in the suit, which seeks to bar Stiglet, a former Riemann's employee, from working for Edmund Fahey Funeral Home of Bay St. Louis for a two year period, opened Wednesday with Robert M. Riemann, manager-partner of Riemann's Funeral Homes taking the stand as the first witness.

The suit charges Stiglet with violating terms of his contract, and providing "trade secrets," including Riemann's customer accounts and training and personnel procedure, to Fahey when he joined that firm.

Riemann told the court that Stiglet had signed two contracts with his firm, and the second contract provided that he (Stiglet) could not engage in, be associated with, be interested in, or be employed by any funeral business in Harrison, Hancock, or Jackson counties and the adjacent counties for a period of two years after termination of his employment with Riemann. That contract, executed Dec. 7, 1974, expired Feb. 10, 1976, the day Stiglet left Riemann's employ.

The contract also has a clause stating that, upon written request, Riemann (the employer) will waive that provision if it works a hardship on the employee.

Stiglet said Wednesday he didn't like signing the second contract "because I didn't know what it was all about, but I didn't have any choice. I had to support my family." He said Riemann threatened to fire him if he refused to sign.

Stiglet also testified that Riemann stopped him on U.S. Highway 90, presented the contract, and demanded that he sign it then.

"I asked if I could have it checked out, but he said he wanted it signed then," Stiglet said. "The contract was signed at the Long Beach city limits," he added.

When Stiglet resigned from Riemann's, he said he told his employer that he was taking a position with Fahey. He said Riemann asked him where Fahey "was getting the money to finance a funeral home. I told him I didn't know and he said he'd find out," Stiglet said.

Stiglet and Fahey were called as adverse witnesses by Riemann's attorney, in attempts to determine whether Stiglet had written burial insurance for former Riemann policy holders since his employment with Fahey.

Two witnesses testified they had bought insurance from Stiglet, but said the transaction was based on friendship and that Stiglet had not initiated it.

Mixed reactions greet Mr. Easter Rabbit

The handicapped children who come to the Crippled Children's Foundation in Kiln are just like children everywhere when it comes to a party. They also share their doubts about the existence of Santa Claus and the Easter Bunny, but the Easter Bunny made a pretty impressive appearance at their party Thursday.

The children had a hard time containing their excitement as they waited for the party to begin. They stared at the Easter Bunny who was there in the form of Fred Horn and just weren't sure what to make of him. Late arrivals were startled to see him at the door when they came in.

Finally all of the children were there and the party began. The Easter Bunny went out among the children and received mixed reactions of joy and fear from the youngsters. Most of their fears melted away as quickly as Easter chocolate when the rabbit hopped about handing out Easter eggs and candy.

And, like children everywhere, the kids were able to eat the goodies faster than they could be handed out. But between the Easter Bunny and the ladies from the Clermont Harbor Handcrafters, who sponsored the party, none of the kids was without something to eat or drink for more than a moment.

The ladies from the Handcrafters seemed to enjoy the affair as much as the children as they led the kids in songs and coaxed the shy children into coming over to see the Easter Bunny. Eventually the ladies found themselves down on their hands and knees playing with the kids and some were even overcome by the festivities and abandoned their diets, but tried not to eat as much as the kids.

The kids and the adults sang, "Here Comes Peter Cottontail, Hopping Down the Bunny Trail," as Horn did his part and hopped around passing out candy from a basket of goodies. Excitement peaked when each child was given a stuffed animal to keep.

Picayune. No charges were filed in the accident.

The child had reportedly been walking on Mississippi 603 when struck. Father Charles Johnson of Christ Episcopal Church in Bay St. Louis conducted services.

Services held for Kiln youth

Funeral services for 10-year-old Sidney Woods Jr. of Kiln were held at 11 a.m. Friday from Mitchell-Woods Funeral Home Chapel with burial in Bayou CoCo Cemetery.

The youth was struck and killed Wednesday night by a car driven by Hollis R. Lee Sr., 63, of Rt. 1, Box 309,

Bicentennial news

Hoist the main, it's Operation Sail

By JOE PILET

If you plan to be in Denmark on the Fourth of July by all means attend the Fourth of July festivities at Rebild National Park in Jutland. Ever since 1912 the Danes have observed United States Independence Day. This year one of the largest celebrations of America's 200th birthday outside the United States itself will be held in Denmark. Expected are 40,000 Danes and visitors.

Principal speaker for Denmark's salute will be Victor Borge, Danish born entertainer. The Danish Royal family headed by Queen Margrethe II will be in attendance.

From July 4 and pleasant views.

More than 2,000 musicians from 18 nations will gather for the Copenhagen Youth Festival. Also the 25th Viking Festival performance is scheduled at Frederikssund.

The friendly Danes are making prices attractive for family visits. Hovborg Inn rates are $24 a day double - or for $84 a week one may have homey accommodations with meals with a Danish family. Denmark boasts charming old cities and towns. Copenhagen has a special self-guided walking tour of the old city. In Elsinore the old streets are lined with historic buildings

More bicentennial BIGS are coming from abroad! More than 225 sailing vessels have registered for participation in OPERATION SAIL 1976. Millions of Americans are expected to see the once-in-a-lifetime armada on July 4 in New York Harbor - or later at one of the major ports in the United States. Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, San Juan, Honolulu as well as ports on the Great Lakes have put in a bid to host contingents of the fleet after it leaves New York.

Plans call for full-rigged ships, brigs, Barquentines, barks, schooners, ketches and sloops. No doubt they will be trailed by sleek private yachts including West Germany, France, Poland and possibly 5,000 American yachts! The event will bring together sailing vessels from around the world - Great Britain, Italy, Denmark, Norway, Poland, the Netherlands, West Germany, Japan, Chile, Spain and the Soviet Union!

Operation Sail '76 sails with purpose. To focus on the role of America's early seagoing tradition and the importance of the nation's maritime role in commerce, defense, fishing, and exploration. Chairman Emil Mosbacher said, "We do not mean to limit ourselves to the past. We hope too that Operation Sail will remind all Americans that the sea and today's modern ship will remain as vital links in our day-to-day existence and will remain so for generations to come."

Financed almost entirely by private subscriptions, almost all of the $1.5 million budget has been collected. Officials of Operation Sail, 1976 predict at least five million spectators will view the flotilla in New York Harbor alone.

The stars of the show will be over 30 Tall Ships, including the 333-foot Amerigo Vespucci of Italy, Norway's 237-foot Christian Radich, the 336-foot Libertad of Argentina, and Spain's 370-foot Juan Sebastian de Elcano. Not to be overlooked will be Great Britain's Sir Winston Churchill with its all-women crew!

CLEANUP TIME - The whole family can participate in an inexpensive cleanup campaign to help eliminate mosquito breeding and resting areas. Here, mom and daughter, get ready to trim shubbery while dad gets the mower out of storage for some early mowing.

Health officials advise cleanup to deter encephalitis outbreaks

Summer 1976 may be more than a time for outdoor fun for Mississippians since warm weather also brings an unwelcome visitor with it - the pesky household mosquito.

And public health officials are warning Mississippians that a killer may again hitch a ride on the wings of the mosquito - St. Louis encephalitis.

"We're all looking forward to warm weather," said Dr. Durward Blakey, chief, Bureau of Disease Control, Miss. State Board of Health, "but we should never forget that last summer St. Louis encephalitis killed 25 persons and affected some 279 people in 42 of the state's 82 counties."

"And we're expecting it to recur this summer," he added. "We don't know where it will strike and we don't know the severity of the viral infection but from past knowledge we do expect it to hit the state again."

The mosquito, which caused possibly the worst public health epidemic in years, is not an exotic visitor. It is the Culex mosquito, the common Southern household variety that appears in the state each year.

The strain of encephalitis is the St. Louis type. It got its name from an epidemic some 40 years ago in St. Louis which killed over 200 persons.

According to Dr. Blakey, the virus is carried by the mosquito. The reservoirs or hosts of the virus are birds and especially those birds which stay close to man, such as sparrows.

The mosquito may bite a bird carrying the SLE virus, become infected, and then bite a person. The virus is not contagious from bird to bird or bird to man. The only means of transmission is by the mosquito.

Approximately ten days after a human is bitten by a diseased mosquito, infection begins to develop symptoms include high fever, chills, headache, muscle aches and pain, especially in the neck and thighs.

St. Louis encephalitis may also effect the brain and spinal cord, producing signs such as confusion, tremor, paralysis, coma or stupor.

"SLE exerts its most severe effects on the elderly, who many times have an accompanying health problem," said Dr. Blakey. "It has the peculiarity of sparing the young. This does not mean that the virus last year was not detected in the young. It was and the youngest person known to have had St. Louis encephalitis was only six months of age."

The Mississippi State Board of Health has been working since the end of the 1975 epidemic to prepare for a possible recurrence this summer.

But, according to Dr. Blakey, it's not too early for homeowners to begin to do their part in preparing for a possible epidemic.

To prevent mosquito reproduction, homeowners should first clear all breeding places. Mosquitoes breed in small pools of stagnant water. Wiggle tails, or young mosquitoes, live in water and develop there from a larva into an adult. So, in order to stop the spread of encephalitis, you must stop mosquitoes from breeding and multiplying.

Empty and turn upside down or throw away any container on your property that contains water. Get rid of old tires, tin cans, bottles, jars, buckets, drums - anything that collects water. Clean out roof gutters and flat roof drains. Drain any water standing under mobile homes. Repair plumbing leaks, wastewater drains, screens on water tanks, cisterns and all other covers on water containers.

At all times keep rain barrels, tanks and cisterns covered with fine mesh screen wire. Make sure garbage cans are tightly covered. Clean and refill pools, flower vases and all other water containers at least once a week. Don't throw lawn clippings or animal or plant waste material into the margins of nearby swamps, lakes or streams. Fill or drain holes in trees and low spots where water collects and stands. Construction sites may also have puddles that stand for at least two weeks. These should also be treated.

Spray or treat mosquito breeding areas such as privies, stagnant sewage, wastewater drains and culverts with an approved larvicide.

Keep grass and weeds cut, especially around bodies of water and ditches.

For indoor protection, repair or replace damaged screens on doors and windows. Cover openings in floors, walls and doors.

Symbolic stitchery

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Heckman of Minnesota proudly display their autograph album quilt, designed and stitched by their children, Bay St. Louis residents, which they received on their 40th wedding anniversary, one year ago today.

Anniversary quilt recalls 40 years of love

One year ago today, Ed and Neva Heckman saw their very lives pass before their eyes.

The incident did not occur following a "near-miss" accident, but resulted with the presentation of an autograph album quilt on the occasion of the Heckman's 40th wedding anniversary.

The homemade patchwork quilt was designed and stitched by the Heckman's daughters, Lola Voss and Clara Godwin of Bay St. Louis.

According to a booklet which accompanied the quilt, the quilt top design, stitched by a family friend, Mrs. Elmer B. Askew, was inspired, in part, by "the love and interests of Mom and Dad. Handwritten signatures in the white border of the red and white quilt are those of family members and friends of the Heckmans.

According to Mrs. Godwin, there are 22 different types of stitches on the quilt, including the scroll stitch used to fashion a replica of her mother's dress, couched filling which depicts hearts, a raised chain band which forms a miniature of her father's omnipresent watch chain, and a herringbone stitch used to design his overalls.

The symbolic quilt traces the family history from the Heckman's wedding day, through their early years together, the birth, raising and education and eventual marriage of their children, and concludes with their present day life.

The Heckman's various hobbies, jobs, and dreams are depicted through intricate stitchery, reflecting the many long hours of love put into the project which took a year to complete.

The feelings the Heckman off-spring have for their parents is summed up in a poetic paraphrase which precedes the quilt's explanation:

"Round each piece a mem'ry lingers

Like a sweet story told by loving fingers.

Glad memories are woven unaware

By blending pieces and stitches

Picked with care."

HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Lionel Baxter, vice president - history, was featured speaker at a recent meeting of the Hancock County Historical Society.

The subject of his talk was research of family genealogy.

Baxter gave an example of his family history and presented copies of marriage certificates obtained from both Hancock and Harrison Counties.

He said the certificates, which dated back to 1850, were obtained in a relatively short period of time, and he pointed out an interesting fact concerning the certificates - that a total of $200 was required to obtain the marriage license, and if the marriage did not take place, the fee was forfeited.

Following the program, Baxter informed members of progress concerning the census research for the years 1810, 1820, 1830, and 1840 in the county. He said a record of public and private cemeteries would be researched and recorded in addition to the census records.

In other business, the membership approved the issuance of a certificate to persons donating reference materials to the society for the use of further research and recording the history of one county.

Mrs. Harris Boudreaux, president, VFW Auxiliary

Tasty from Checkerboard Kitchens

A COMPANY CASSEROLE FROM LEFTOVER HAM
Invite guests over for the last of the ham. They won't mind eating leftovers when they are part of a flavorful and attractive dish like Confetti Casserole. Ingredients are simple. Colorful ham, noodles and green beans bake in a savory sauce made easy with canned soup. A topping of slightly crushed bite-size crispy Rice Chex adds extra flavor and just the right crunchiness.

CONFETTI CASSEROLE

- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 1/2 cups Rice Chex cereal (bite-size crispy rice squares) crushed to 1 1/2 cups
- 1 tablespoon chopped onion
- 1 can (10 3/4 oz.) condensed cream of mushroom soup
- 1 cup dairy sour cream
- 1/8 teaspoon thyme
- 1 package (10 oz.) frozen green beans, cooked and drained (unsalted)
- 3 ounces noodles, cooked and drained (about 2 cups cooked)
- 1 1/2 cups cooked cubed ham
- 1/4 cup chopped ripe olives

Melt butter or margarine in large skillet. Remove 2 tablespoons and mix with cereal crumbs. Reserve for topping. Sauté onion in remaining butter until soft (about 5 minutes). Remove from heat and stir in soup, sour cream and thyme. Add green beans, noodles, ham and olives to sauce mixture. Stir until all pieces are coated. Turn into 2-quart casserole. Sprinkle cereal crumbs evenly over top. Dust with paprika if desired. Bake in 350° oven for 20-25 minutes or until lightly browned and edges are bubbly. Makes 6 (1 cup) servings.

Understanding Your Baby

FIRST GOOD FOODS

Baby's first food, milk, is 87 percent water. Apples contain 85 percent water. The fact is that the weight of most foods comes from water, naturally.

Some of the world's most knowledgeable nutritionists, experts at Heinz, urge consumers not to become concerned when they see water listed as the first, second, or third ingredient on the food label. Since water occurs naturally in so many of the major products' ingredients, it is very often the ingredient in the greatest amount and must be listed as such. Some people are concerned because unused baby food sometimes gets watery. This condition is technically called "enzymatic liquefaction." Simply stated, human saliva contains an enzyme called ptyalin or salivary amylase. This active enzyme helps us to digest carbohydrates or sugars by breaking them down into smaller, simple sugars, acceptable by the body tissue.

If you've fed baby directly from the jar, chances are you've transferred saliva (and the ptyalin enzyme) to the food jar. Thus, ptyalin begins to break down or thin carbohydrates in the leftover food, creating a watery consistency.

For this reason, it is recommended that you spoon out the desired amount of food from the jar, heat and serve. Cover and refrigerate the unused portion in the jar (but use within several days for maximum flavor).

NEWS OF HEALTH

Protect Your Heart

A happy heart is a healthy heart. But if you are a typically sedentary American, your heart may be happy and not necessarily healthy.

According to the American Heart Association (AHA), exercise could be one of the keys to a healthier heart. Through exercise, one may help reduce the risk of heart attack or stroke. And exercise can be fun and healthy if you put your heart into sports.

April was designated "Put Your Heart Into Sports Month," a national public service program sponsored by the National Sporting Goods Association for AHA to encourage individuals of all ages to engage in sports and regular exercise for the sake of their hearts.

Every month is a good month to keep your heart happy and healthy. Participate in any sport which is rhythmic, repetitive and involves motion such as: tennis, vigorous walking, stationary or regular cycling, swimming, jogging, running, rope jumping, badminton or golf (pulling cart).

Almost any sport will keep you in top-notch shape if you have always remained physically active. But if you are out of shape and undertaking an exercise program, AHA recommends that you get medical clearance from your physician, as well as exercise tolerance testing for those over 35.

So have a happy and healthy heart by putting yours into sports!

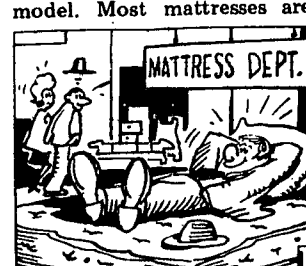

HOW TO BUY A MATTRESS

To get the right rest at night, you have to lie down on the job when mattress shopping.

Right there in the store, relax on the mattress. Turn over and move around. Don't just rush down with your hand. See if it's the right size and firmness for you.

Ask the salesman to explain its construction features and show you a cut-away model. Most mattresses are made of steel wire coils covered with insulation, upholstery and ticking. The number of coils per mattress can vary from 180 to 1,000 but more coils do not necessarily mean more support. Generally, the heavier the coil, the firmer the mattress.

There is one type of inner-spring mattress that's made differently to offer you unique comfort and support. Made by Simmons and available in a variety of firmnesses, Beautyrest mattresses have individually pocketed coils designed to adapt and conform to your body contours. Each coil responds independently to the pressure on it, which means that two people can sleep on these mattresses without "peaks and valleys" between them.

Because mattresses and box springs are designed to work together, it's best to buy both for maximum comfort. And since your new mattress should last at least 10 years, don't be turned away if it seems too expensive. You'll only be spending three or four cents a night, and that's not bad when you consider the importance of a good night's sleep.

A clock in the bathroom may prevent morning dilly-dallying.

Nutrition specialist warns prepare food safely for special spring meals

MISSISSIPPI STATE — It's spring! And, spring seems to be a favorite time for family and friends to gather for special meals. Food safety precautions used in preparing your "covered-dish" meal will help assure a pleasant occasion.

Never leave uncooked or cooked meat at room temperature for more than two hours, warns Mrs. Ina Kimbrough, foods and nutrition specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. All meats contain some bacteria, so keep it COLD (below 40 degrees F.) or HOT (above 140 degrees F.), she says.

People with colds and infections, or sores or cuts on their hands, should not handle foods, especially perishable foods such as meat. This may spread bacteria.

Ham is a favorite meat for special meals. Hams labeled "cured" or "cured and smoked" must be cooked before you eat them, says the specialist. They should be cooked to an internal temperature of 160 degrees F. "Fully cooked" hams are cooked thoroughly in processing and are ready to eat.

Refrigerate whole hams no longer than seven days; cured half hams, cured ham slices, or fresh ham, no more than three days," says Mrs. Kimbrough. "Once opened, any canned ham should be refrigerated. Check labels to see if it needs refrigeration before opening. After opening, use it within seven days."

Creamed foods are perishable items and need special care. Serve immediately after preparing. Do not allow these foods to stand at room temperature more than two hours. Use some method of keeping them hot (above 140 degrees F.).

Cream-filled desserts such as cream puffs are extremely perishable. Make them shortly before serving; keep them refrigerated; and don't keep leftovers, even though they are refrigerated, more than a day.

Can you prepare and serve food to avoid foodborne illness? Foodborne illness, notes the specialist, is often mistaken for a simple "bug" or virus, but the real cause may be food that was not properly handled, prepared or served. The illness can cause diarrhea, vomiting, stomach cramps and other unpleasant symptoms which can last for several hours or even days.

With young children and elderly people the results can be more severe. Foodborne illness may not be a problem when serving and preparing meals for your family everyday. But, when large groups get together, the types and quantities of food present different problems.

THE OLE PASTOR SAYS...

By L. S. WALKER
Let me share with you some inspiring lines which came to my study many years ago. I do not recall who may have penned these provoking lines, but they captivated my deepest interest and revealed again the efficacy and beauty of Christian character. The brief bit was entitled, "What the World is looking for." A better title would be, "What the World needs..."

"The world is looking for men who are not for sale, men who are honest, sound from center to circumference, true to the heart's core, men with conscience as steady as the needle to the pole; men who will stand for right if the heavens totter and the earth reels; men who will tell the truth and look the world right in the eye; men who neither drag nor run, men who neither flag nor flinch; men who can have courage without shouting it; men in whom courage of everlasting life runs still deep and strong; men who know their message and tell it; men who know their place and fill it; men who know their business and attend to it; men who will not lie, shirk nor dodge; men who are not too lazy to work, nor too proud to be poor (when honor makes it necessary); men who are willing to eat what they have earned and wear what they have paid for; men who are not ashamed to say "No" with emphasis, and who are not ashamed to say, "I can't afford it!"

The Bible says: "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches, and loving favor rather than silver and gold." (Prov. 22:1).

Law students should apply now

CLINTON - Students from the Bay St. Louis area who desire to attend the Mississippi College School of Law during the 1976-77 school year should get their applications in as soon as possible, advises Mrs. Mary Libby Payne, interim dean.

"The Admissions Committee of the School of Law is now considering applications for the limited number of openings in the 1976 first year class," said Mrs. Payne. "Students who delay too long in making application may find that the freshman class roll has been completed."

The law school has established June 1 as the deadline for receiving new applications and any received after that date will be placed on standby status.

Applications and additional information can be secured by writing to the School of Law, Mississippi College, P. O. Box 4008 Clinton, MS, 39058.

KANTCHA KETCHUM

By L.S. (Dec) Elliott

Alden Mauffrey, John Scaife, Sr. and Jimmy Mayfield had a successful trip to the marsh Sunday. They caught about 80 speckle trout according to Alden. The water was good and the weather perfect. These folks are also expert fresh water fishermen. Think they fished in the Mitchell Key area. This will be good news to salt water fishermen.

Beau Kelley, stationed at Gulfport and in the Navy, wants to go fishing. We'll make that trip one day, Beau. A little practice and the know how can accomplish a lot in knowing how to catch fish.

Ree Elliott and Debbie of Gulfport haven't time to do much fishing but they are real sports' otherwise. Remember Ree everything comes to him who waits, even whiskers.

Henry Lang one of our best soft crabs and flounderers said his feet are itching to go after the delicacies, soft crabs. Henry has been catching soft crabs for years and predicts they will be giving soon. Hope you are right Henry. We want some too.

According to the Tide Table published each week in The Echo, it is accurate. Cut it out and put it in your wallet. Refer to it when you want to go fishing. When it says high tide in the afternoon stay home if you are fishing for fresh water fish. They just won't bite. Learned this from experience.

Also learned that now is the time to catch perch and trout while still fishing. They are spawning. Find out where and you have it made. Earth worms are the best bait. Dig them yourself. They are found mostly in manure beds or leaf mold.

Turkey hunting in the Pearl

River Wildlife Management said his feet are itching to go after the delicacies, soft crabs. Henry has been catching soft crabs for years and predicts they will be giving soon. Hope you are right Henry. We want some too.

Andrew Mitchell, Dale Moran, Elly Gottschalk, Carol Feigel and Ricky Gottschalk were whooping it up at Haverly's.

Waveland students visit Chalmette

The fifth grade students of Waveland Elementary School, sponsored by Mrs. Audrey Malone, Mrs. Portia Stewart and several parents, went on a field trip to Chalmette Battlefield National Park Thursday.

The students were given a guided tour of the battlefield and the national cemetery. They also were shown a film concerning the Battle of New Orleans.

The field trip was in conjunction with the school's observance of the nation's bicentennial.

The trip also included a visit to an authentic plantation home of the pre-Civil War period.

Sunfish sailors

Sailors in the recent Sunfish sailing competition are neck-to-neck as they race toward the finish line at the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club.

Bay sailors win honors in Sunfish sailing race

Sailors from the Bay St. Louis area took first place with a total of 13½ points at the recent Sun Fish sailing competition held at the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club.

Participating teams, in addition to the winners, represented St. Stanislaus, second place, 12½ points; Coast Episcopal High School, third place, nine points; and Our Lady's Academy, fourth place, four points.

Last weekend's race was the first in the Sun Fish series for the 1976 season. Speaking of the competition for team sailing, Miss Margaret Baltar said she hoped other schools will participate in the future and that a high school sailing league will become a part of the sports program for the Gulf Coast.

Persons interested in learning more about the project may contact Miss Baltar at 452-2595.

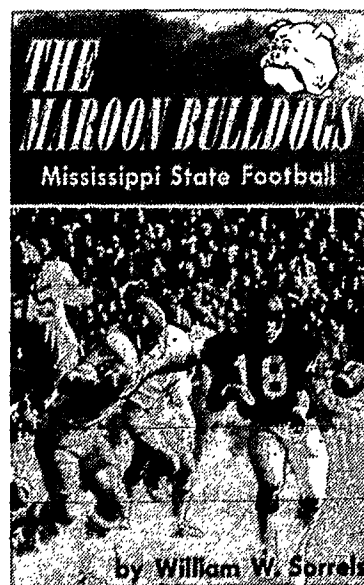

Racing results are as follows:

First Race - C. Steffel, Bay St. Louis, first; L. Stevens, OLA, second; B. Fayard, St. Stanislaus, third; H. Ross, CEHS, fourth.

Second Race - T. Edwards, St. Stanislaus, first; B. Kulick, CEHS, second; T. Steffel, Bay St. Louis, third; Jama not sail.

Third Race - R. Steffel, Bay St. Louis, first; E. Santa Cruz, CEHS, second; R. Santa Cruz, St. Stanislaus, third; OLA - did not sail.

Fourth Race - T. Edwards, St. Stanislaus, first; J. Adams, Bay St. Louis, second; E. Santa Cruz, CEHS, third; OLA - did not sail.

Hancock P&H to advertise for Stennis management agency

The resident manager of Global Associates, current operators of Stennis International Airport, said Wednesday the company would definitely submit its own bid for continued management services at Stennis International Airport. Global manager Glen Vaughan Wednesday confirmed his company's intent in regards to the future of the county air facility. "We have been operating the airport for the past 21 months and have enjoyed the association," Vaughan said. Wilson Webre, director of Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission, requested and received permission from County supervisors Monday to advertise for the new airport promotional arrangement.

"We think it is in the best interests of the public that Stennis International Airport be put on a profit making basis," Webre said, adding, "It is the opinion of the commission that we now be permitted to advertise for a management agency having a track record in successful airport operation." The director said that the successful bidder would have to post a $1 million prepared to assume full of airport operation ays of signing the bre said. d it was Global's in- a fully qualified airport d they be successful in airport operations manual. To fulfill the contract, the management agency may install one or more fixed base operators, and engage in other promotional activities to swell airport revenues.

Webre said no land sale was involved in the contract and none is contemplated.

For its part, the county will receive three cents a gallon from both gasoline and jet fuel sales, and all net profits after deducting the management agency's fixed budget and 10 percent management fee. The agency would submit a budget request to the county each fiscal year for approval, Webre said.

To permit fiscal year audits, the initial management contract will expire Sept. 30, 1978.

At least for this period, Webre said Tuesday, the commission may have to meet the difference in present gross revenues and commission approved, budgeted expenditures.

Now suitable for a commercial reliever airport, Stennis International boasts of an 8,500 by 150 foot main runway - having a 200,000 lb. stress capacity - complete with taxiway and turnarounds.

A like letter has also been dispatched by Mrs. Ladner to nine of her lease holders. Waveland has a total of 75 project units.

The two directors also, again emphasized that they were conducting their operation strictly within the federal government's guidelines.

The computation of rents, gas charges, maintenance fees, and collection methods are monitored by HUD, both directors said.

Waveland Mayor John Longo said Wednesday that he felt all parties involved in the affair can be satisfied if they abide by the law.

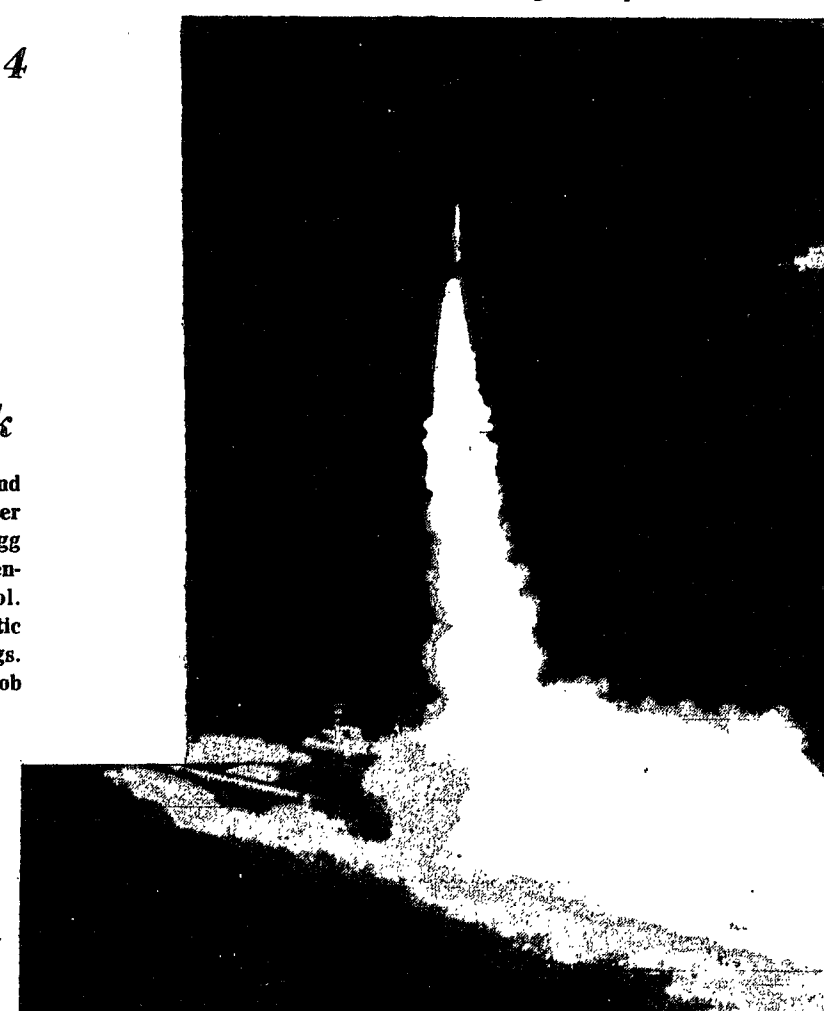

"As I interpret the law, the grievance should be made directly to the housing authority in writing. These complaints will then come before the respective boards," the mayor said.

Other project tenants visited this week said they had no desire to join in with the dissenters although they did express the thought that if some of the tenants "had a beef" then they should file grievance.

A general tenant meeting has been set up for 7:30 p.m., Friday in Sy Rosenthal Gymnasium at St. Augustine's Seminary.

On target

While traveling at a speed of 70 miles per hour, the U. S. Navy's SES-100B successfully launched a medium range guided missile over the Gulf of Mexico last week, and exactly 20 seconds later, the missile hit its target, a surplus vessel positioned off the south coast of Fort Walton Beach, Fla. This photograph of the missile as it left the launching pad, was taken by Carl Gustafson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gustafson Sr. of Bay St. Louis. Gustafson is a Bay High School graduate and began his career in photography by working for the BHS year book and school paper.

Taught by Ronald Burks, the Industrial Drafting vocational course at Hancock North Central School is attracting an exceptional cross-section of students.

Offering as much opportunity to girls as to boys, the course, according to Burks, is designed to teach illustration techniques

The Octagon

McArthur house plans were influenced by visit to the Longwood Plantation. Octagon shaped, the structure is built around a central, courtyard-flanked swimming pool and defies its apparent disadvantage by offering only slight angles of division.

Lucy McArthur

A junior at Hancock North Central High School, Lucy McArthur is the daughter of George McArthur and Mrs. Elizabeth Bennett of Pearlinton.

Now working towards entering LSU to study architecture, she is a cheerleader for the Hawks football team, and a former band member.

Lucy's first stirrings towards her intended major came as a result of perusing books on medieval cultures, particularly as they concerned construction in Egypt. Books also form her principal liking.

"I enjoy reading both fiction and non-fiction, and average more than five books a month," she said.

Her second love is visiting old buildings, a factor she said laid the foundation for several of the ideas she later incorporated into her original house plans.

"A visit to Longwood Plantation did much to influence my ideal residence design," she said.

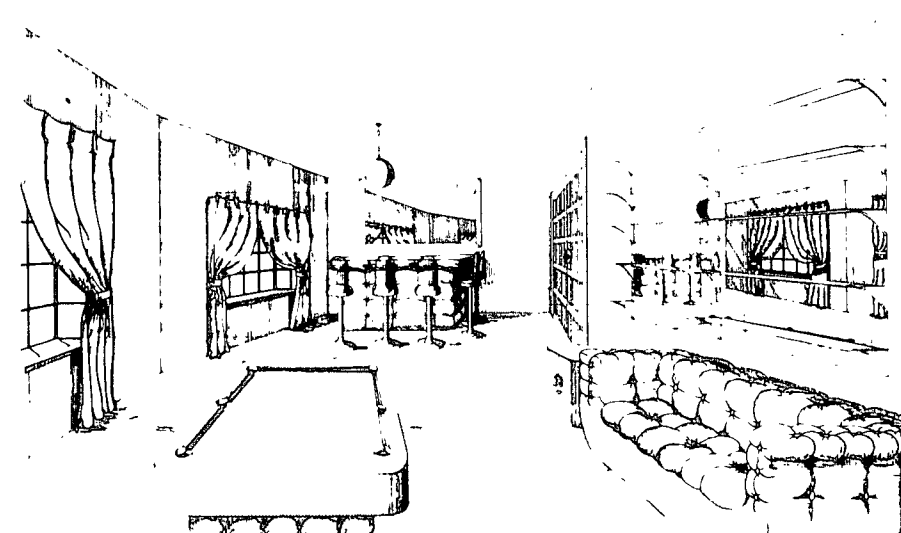

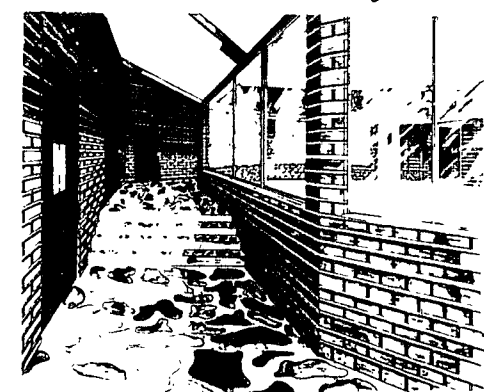

Lucy loves the outdoors and seldom fails to visit her two horses each day, even though their pasture is some considerable distance from her home.

Handy around the house, she performs most chores way ahead of receiving "hints," in that direction.

The future architect, who also gets straight A's in HNC's Industrial Drafting course, admitted to one other, completely unrelated fondness.

"I like sunbathing on the beach in my bikini," she allowed!

The resident manager of Global Associates, current operators of Stennis International Airport, said Wednesday the company would definitely submit its own bid for continued management services at Stennis International Airport. Global manager Glen Vaughan Wednesday confirmed his company's intent in regards to the future of the county air facility. "We have been operating the airport for the past 21 months and have enjoyed the association," Vaughan said. Wilson Webre, director of Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission, requested and received permission from County supervisors Monday to advertise for the new airport promotional arrangement.

"We think it is in the best interests of the public that Stennis International Airport be put on a profit making basis," Webre said, adding, "it is the opinion of the commission that we now be permitted to advertise for a management agency having a track record in successful airport operation."

The director said that the successful bidder would have to post a $1 million bond to be prepared to assume full responsibility of airport operation 15 days of signing the contract, Webre said. He said it was Global's intent to hire a fully qualified airport should they be successful in airport operations manual.

To fulfill the contract, the management agency may install one or more fixed base operators, and engage in other promotional activities to swell airport revenues.

Webre said no land sale was involved in the contract and none is contemplated.

For its part, the county will receive three cents a gallon from both gasoline and jet fuel sales, and all net profits after deducting the management agency's fixed budget and 10 percent management fee. The agency would submit a budget request to the county each fiscal year for approval, Webre said.

To permit fiscal year audits, the initial management contract will expire Sept. 30, 1976.

At least for this period, Webre said Tuesday, the commission may have to meet the difference in present gross revenues and commission approved, budgeted expenditures.

Now suitable for a commercial reliever airport, Stennis International boasts of an 8,500 by 150 foot main runway - having a 280,000 lb. stress capacity - complete with taxiway and turnarounds.

as well as provide insight into commercial drafting requirements.

Two of its outstanding members are Charlotte Peterson, 18, and Lucy McArthur, 16. It is to them, and their classmates, this issue of "special recognition" is dedicated.

Charlotte Peterson

One of six children, Charlotte Peterson, senior at Hancock North Central, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.P. Peterson of Deadeaux.

Born on July 4, 1957, Charlotte has proved her "independence" by realizing a high level of success in the difficult field of architectural and mechanical drawing and design.

Of her achievements, her instructor, Ronald Burks, says, "My top marks are usually B's. Charlotte has continually earned straight A's by proving she can do the work, and by applying her ever present desire to learn more."

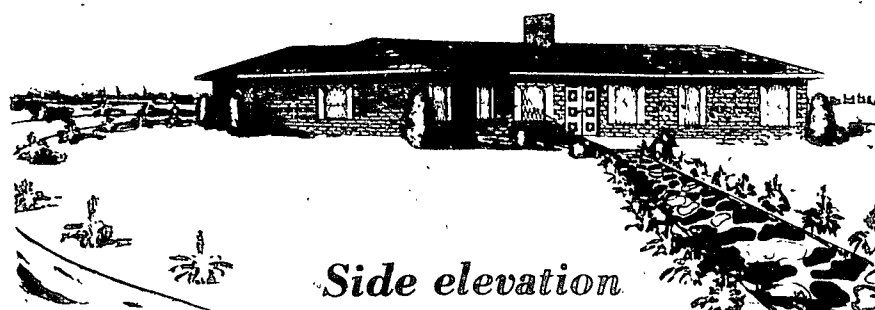

Liking housework, the architectural student has designed a residence that incorporated several new ideas, for both appearance and utility.

One of the features of her "home," is a large sewing room - a reflection of another of her interests.

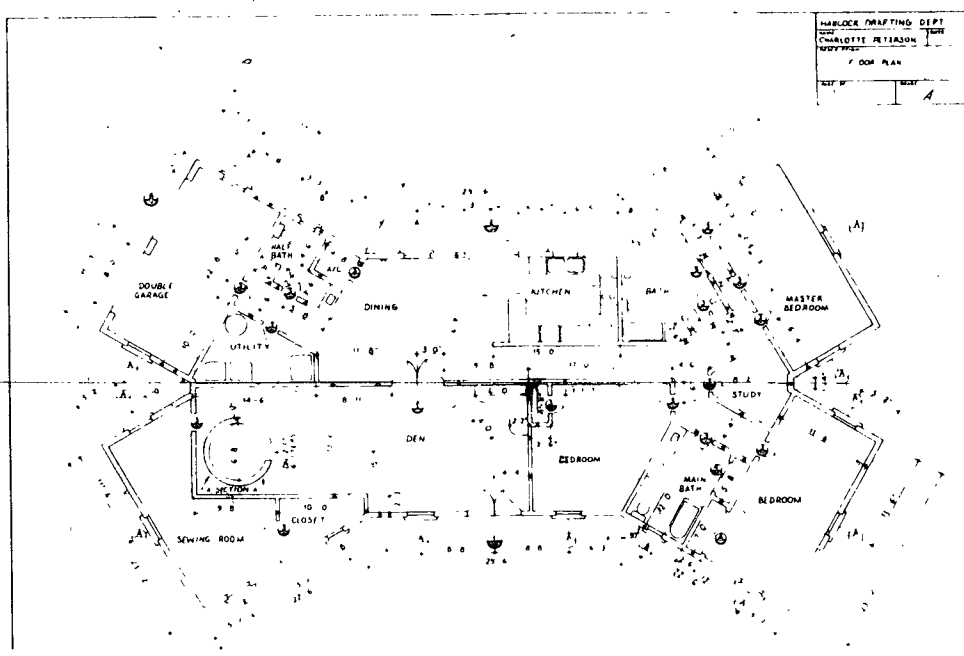

Making her own clothes from scratch, she also acts as designer, pattern cutter, and seamstress for her mother and younger sister.

A member of the Hawkettes, HNC's famed basketball squad, Charlotte also excels at horse riding, biking, and camping. To keep her athletic activities at a peak even during the "off season" Charlotte is now busy performing duties as "bat girl" for the Hawks baseball team.

To register at Pearl River Junior College this fall, she intends to major in architectural drafting.

The two directors also, again emphasized that they were conducting their operation strictly within the federal government's guidelines.

The computation of rents, gas charges, maintenance fees, and collection methods are monitored by HUD, both directors said.

Waveland Mayor John Longo said Wednesday that he felt all parties involved in the affair can be satisfied if they abide by the law.

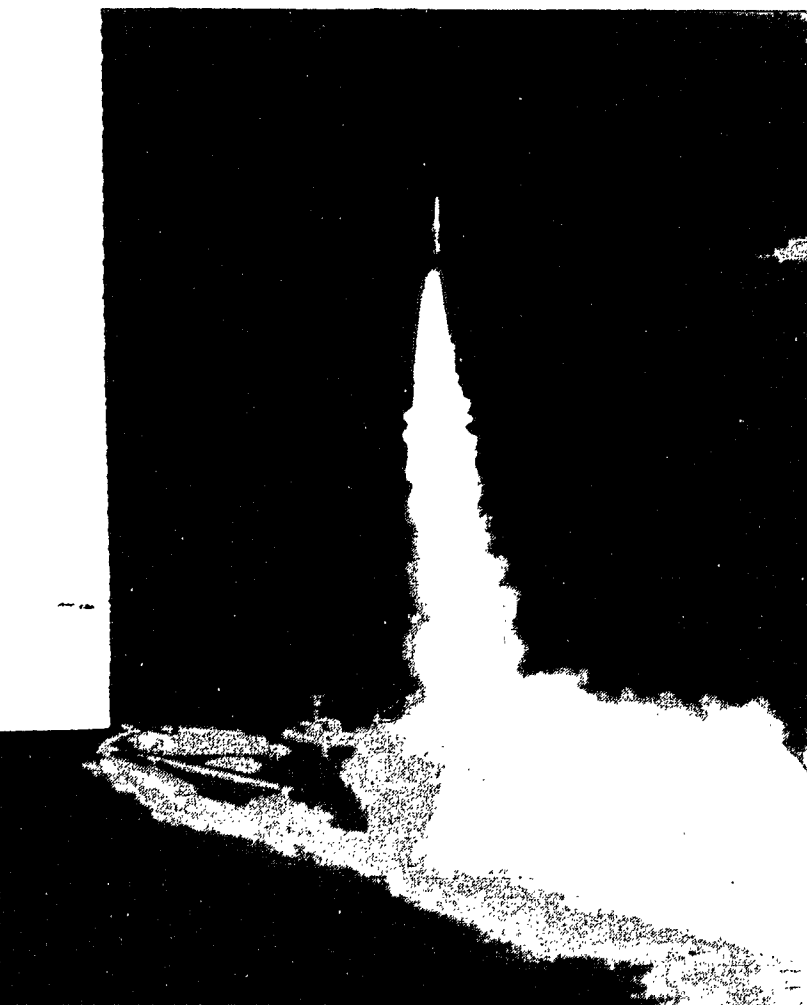

"As I interpret the law, the grievance should be made directly to the housing authority in writing. These complaints, will then come before the respective boards," the mayor said.

Other project tenants visited this week said they had no desire to join in with the dissenters although they did express the thought that if some of the tenants "had a beef" then they should file grievance.

A general tenant meeting has been set up for 7:30 p.m., Friday in St. Rosenthal Gymnasium at St. Augustine's Seminary.

While traveling at a speed of 70 miles per hour, the U. S. Navy's SES-100B successfully launched a medium range guided missile over the Gulf of Mexico last week, and exactly 20 seconds later, the missile hit its target, a surplus vessel positioned off the south coast of Fort Walton Beach, Fla. This photograph of the missile as it left the launching pad, was taken by Carl Gustafson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gustafson Sr. of Bay St. Louis. Gustafson is a Bay High School graduate and began his career in photography by working for the BHS year book and school paper.

Chad Collier, 7, expertly handles frog, captured during Easter Egg hunt in Kiln. Frog later jumped into egg basket and caused no end of commotion. Chad is son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Collier of Kiln. Frog is son of Mr. and Mrs. Green of Kiln. Both are to be found around Annunciation School.

Notice:

Due to space limitations imposed by requirements of our main feature, we are again forced to postpone giving details of our new contest.

Too, the startling announcement concerning the Rock Roll and Joust has been rolled back, as have the revelations concerning developments on our intended concert to grow plants by (or to), the chess challenge, and the promised heady cluster of verbs dwelling on miscellaneous. (-J-)

More nice letters in this week

We thank those readers who took time this last week to pen a note to Sunday Echoes. These letters are always nice to receive and keep us trying harder.

Special recognition, and a few big hugs go to: Deborah Ladner, Charlotte Ladner, Lesa Ladner, Annette Haas, LaRhonda Shaw, and Cathy Brown.

It takes the "Where" to win
as well as the "What"

Contest No. 13 has fallen - zomp! Mrs. G.J. Freeman of 202 Kellar Ave., Bay St. Louis sent in first correct answer opened by our chief "contest mail letter-opener," after it had been stamped, franked, spun, dropped, picked-up, restored to better than new condition, and had its cancelled stamp put into an envelope (for some kid who collects those things) by our chief "mail stamper-inner!" Mrs. Freeman's answer was "...part of the fence at the city's barn in back of the Bay's Fire Station where they keep the trucks and machinery for the city." That's hitting the "where" and the "what" squarely on the old ganderzooka. To the victor went the proverbial spoils, and tickets for two to the Star Theatre have been arranged. Contest No. 14 is away, and as little extra clue, remember what your feet do when Spring comes along. First mail to be opened on new contest for all post received, Thursday, April 22, 1976. Good Luck!
